
ROMPHYSCHEM – opening ceremony*

Acad. Maria Zaharescu

I am very honored to be invited to say a few words at the opening of the Romphyschem-17 Conference organized this year.

I shall start confessing you, the little known fact that I have attended all the Romphyschem conferences starting with the very first one, in 1968.

So, I can confirm that all the conferences have presented great interest and attracted impressive numbers of participants, among which the foreign participants were also in high numbers. Many of them have attended the conferences several times.

As the present conference is following of the previous ones, I hope it will have the same success as the previous ones.

To all the participants I wish much scientific success during the conference. For the participants traveling from the rest of the country or from abroad, I hope you enjoy your time in Bucharest or visiting Romania.

Cuvânt rostit în deschiderea Conferinței Internaționale de Chimie Fizică – ROMPHYSCHEM, a XVII-a ediție (25 septembrie 2023, Aula Academiei Române)*